DETAILED ACTION

Drawings

1. This application has been filed with informal drawings which are acceptable for examination purposes only. Formal drawings will be required when the application is allowed.

Priority

2. This application repeats a substantial portion of prior Application No. 09/048,376, filed 3/26/1998, and adds and claims additional disclosure not presented in the prior application. Since this application names an inventor or inventors named in the prior application, it may constitute a continuation-in-part of the prior application. Should applicant desire to obtain the benefit of the filing date of the prior application, attention is directed to 35 U.S.C. 120 and 37 CFR 1.78. A functional map was not disclosed in 09/048,376.

Double Patenting

3. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Art Unit: 3737

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

4. Claims 54-65 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-12 of U.S. Patent No.6,116,626. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because a functional map including a plurality of electrodes is an obvious broadening of the patented claims.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

5. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

6. Claims 54-65 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as containing subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. A functional map is not disclosed in the specification.

7. Claims 54-65 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as containing subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention. A functional map is not disclosed in the specification.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

8. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

9. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

10. Claims 54-65 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Panescu '042 in view of Panescu et al. '163.

Panescu et al. disclose a means for deriving electrical characteristics of cardiac tissue for output in iso-characteristic displays including: an electrode structure (38) and a display (246). Panescu et al. further disclose a means for generating an image of the electrode structure at least partially while performing a procedure and for annotating the image. See abstract, figures 1-30, column 2 lines 45-67, column 14 lines 59-62, column 15 line 46 - column 16 line 4, column 16 lines 40-57 and claims 5-7. Panescu '042 differs from the claimed invention in that a means for locating an electrode on the display by entering the coordinates, a means to manually add an annotation to the image and a means to manually alter the geometrical appearance of the image are not specifically addressed.

Panescu et al. '163 disclose a graphical user interface for use with multiple electrode catheters including: a function for finding an electrode on a display by entering the coordinate, a function for manually adding an annotation to the image of an electrode structure on a display and a function for manually altering an image of an electrode structure on a display. See col. 2 lines 56-64, col. 9 line 40 - col. 10 line 31 and col. 12 lines 51-67. It would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person of ordinary skill in the art to locate an electrode on a display based on the desired coordinates as taught by Panescu et al. '163 in the invention as taught by Panescu '042 to provide a quicker means for determining the position of an electrode with improved accuracy. It would have further been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person of ordinary skill in the art to manually annotate the images as taught by Panescu et al. '163 in the invention as taught by Panescu '042 to permit a practitioner to record important information while performing a medical procedure. It would have further been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person of ordinary skill in the art to manually alter the images as taught by Panescu et al. '163 in the invention as taught by Panescu '042 afford a practitioner more flexibility in performing a medical procedure from different points of view.
